have patience: it take time

Before I moved to Denmark in 2014, I was told that the first 3 months are the hardest, I reserved my savings in my account. After six months, I am running out of my savings, and I ended up as a dishwasher from white collar employee from back home. I decided that I didn't want to go back. You may never feel fully integrated, and I don't fit in my home country anymore. I enjoy the immigrant life and feel guilty sometimes about my decision to move to Denmark. Only other expats understand how you feel in this process so that can feel a bit lonely if you don't know another immigrant.

Slowly, but steadily I accepted the local labour market in 2014, started working in restaurants and bars, but somewhere there are always things in my mind that I am not made for this. After working in restaurants and bars for 7 years I decided to work for myself in the year 2020. I am growing gradually with several startups in the field of IT, Overseas education service, visa consultancy and website design and content writing, but obviously it will take time! I am enjoying my journey, enjoying the excitement of thrills and nervousness. It will take time because it's a startup! Startup is a matter of extracting water from mirage! A startup is a race to reach the horizon on time. A startup is not a 100-meter sprint, but a marathon with hurdles. A startup is a balance between money and people. It will take time to reach your goals, you need to work hard on it. It will take time.

Moving to another country is intimidating but it will boost your self-esteem.

be an adventurer and an ambassador

Even behind the face, there are many faces. Behind every single dramatic up and down of time, there is an intact thrill within. I am a single character in multi-faceted stories, many times dealt with defeat in my life, but that past has not defined me, nor destroyed nor deterred me. Yes, i am the same Dr. Ritesh who you all recognized in a distinct period of time.

During my teenage years, many knew me as the son of a flea market vendor, while some knew me as a seasonal hawker on the road, along with four-wheel carts, for years. Time passed, and I became a proud son who stood up on his feet but hungered to study. I completed my Ph.D. In chemistry and changed my blue-collar identity into a white-collar one. I moved out from india to join the 3.5% migrant diaspora from all over the world, accepting the reality and practicing the tourism labor market of the western world to earn bread and butter, along with two-thirds of the entire labor migrants from the world. I worked within the hospitality sector for 7 years. I take this opportunity to thank all my colleagues from the 20+ restaurants and hotels in copenhagen for providing me with essential knowledge in serving industries and educating me on how to interact as a waiter, bartender, and dishwasher.

I never predicted having such a beautiful experience in my life after completing my Ph.D. In chemistry. The fact that my wax and wane is a reality of any human system that wants to remain dynamic and responsive to thrive. During my wax and wane, i hid a lot from you, and many things were hidden from me as well. I am coming out from nowhere to accept the remaining storm and reach my other side of the seashore.

Thank you
Dr. Ritesh bhatt

background

Bio

I am Dr. Ritesh, I am market researcher, tourism professional and long-term expat. I spend most of my time getting inspired by everything that matters to me, great networking, an artistic city, beautiful people, my family, and friends. I have been on the road for 15 years, lived in 9 cities, moved 12 times, and travelled to 16 countries in my life.

Personal information and values

During my teenage years, many knew me as the son of a flea market vendor, while some were known as seasonal hawkers on the road along with four-wheel carts for years. Time passed and I became a proud son who stood up on his feet, but with hunger to study. Completed my Ph.D. (Chemistry) in 2011, master in tourism from Sweden in 2020.

Alma mater

My academic background includes master in tourism from Mid Sweden University (MUN) Sweden; Ph.D. in Chemistry from Saurashtra University; master of polymer science and technology from S.P. University, India. I have published 1 Ph.D. thesis in chemistry, 1 master thesis in tourism, 1 master thesis in polymer science and technology, 2 books printed from Germany, and published 9 research articles in national and international journals.

Fact, failure and accomplishments

Succeeding my studies, after a master's in science, I was focused towards pursuing Ph. D and I did in 2011. Finding myself in the best position in terms of financial possession and quality of life, I took a chance and decided to move abroad and settle in denmark in 2014. I tried a lot to find a relevant job based on my education background and professional work experience, but unfortunately, I did not, and I ended up with a golden experience in the hospitality industry in copenhagen, denmark.

I take this opportunity to thank all my colleagues from the 20+ restaurants and hotels in copenhagen for providing me with essential knowledge in serving industries, educating me on how to interact as a waiter, bartender, and dishwasher, for not only a few months but for almost 7 years. I never ever predicted having such a beautiful experience in my life after completing my Ph.D. In chemistry.

Spending all these years is not gone into the vein, and I have decided to earn some education after having such a versatile experience overseas which is completely different from my education background, and how i completed my university education in tourism discipline from sweden and again I turn the table on what I am looking forward to.

What Are You Chasing?

Goals of your life

skills & attributes

I believe a skill set comes with experience. My roller coaster journey begins with street vendors and sailing through research scholar, lab chemist, dishwasher, waiter, runner, bartender, Interns, and entrepreneur. Blue collar or white collar, I am always passionate about my every role that is offered by destiny. My work experience abroad tells the stories of thousands of immigrants after getting good academics, training and work experience in their home country and brings their set of skills to the first world country. Many international scholars faced workplace encounters and negative experiences during their restaurant's jobs in Copenhagen. I have reached out to many other overseas fellows in Denmark, Sweden, and India during my research in the tourism discipline. Most of them have gone through the same pain for years. I have faced the same agony and kept encouraging myself for betterment.

I always see and seek the bright side of my life; if life gives you lemon make lemonade. I found my energy in change; I love getting out of my comfort zone and challenging myself into doing new things. I spent 7 years as a blue-collar worker abroad. This Experience ignited an infinite flame inside me to keep moving, and how to work with unknown people and balance your work life.

No one is interested in how many storms you saw in the middle of the sea, but only if you brought the ship to shore or not.

traveling

From life-long experience residing in 3 different countries and travelling 16 countries in my life. You only become an immigrant if you are truly prepared to accept that you will no longer belong anywhere. It's incredibly inspiring, but you will never be truly integrated in any country and yet you will never be able to truly integrate back into your home country. You won't belong there either.

It takes time to build your life in a new country. It takes time to build up a network to learn the language and culture, to figure out where you can best buy what. It takes time!!!!

Travelling leaves
you speechless,
then turns you
into a storyteller.

When we strive to become better than we are, everything around us becomes better too.

-Paulo Coelho

As a professional

After completing my Ph.D. I have started my professional career as a lab chemist at epp composites pvt ltd rajkot, india in the year Of 2007, and then promoted my career as a research and development officer with M/s tipco industry ltd, mumbai, india. I moved To denmark as a startup intern at europe's Top business school copenhagen Business school, copenhagen, denmark.

As a blue collars

Succeeding my studies, after a masters in Plastic & Technology, I was focused towards pursuing Ph. D and I did in 2014. Finding myself in the best position in terms of financial possession and quality of life, I decided to move abroad and settle in Denmark in 2014. I tried a lot to find a relevant job based on my education background and professional work experience, but unfortunately, I did not, and I ended up with a golden experience in the hospitality industry in Copenhagen, Denmark. As a blue-collar worker, I have gone through various job titles like a cleaner, dish washer, bartender, waiter, housekeeper, delivery person and runner with more than 22 bars, hotels, and restaurants for not only a few months but for almost 7 years! The only reason being I wanted to settle down abroad.

My work experience abroad tells the stories of thousands of immigrants after getting good academics, training and work experience in their home country and brings their set of skills to the first world country. Many international scholars faced workplace encounters and negative experiences during their restaurant's jobs in Copenhagen. I tried to reach out to many other overseas fellows in Denmark, Sweden, and India during my master thesis, who settled outside of their home country and worked as a Dishwasher one of the least noticed occupations in the tourism industry. Most of them have gone through the same pain for years. I have faced the same agony and kept encouraging myself for betterment

As an entrepreneur

Life is full of unpredictable things; you must play your own cards. I started my entrepreneur life with a lot of passion and pondering my hard-earned savings from overseas in the service sector business especially in foreign educational consultancy and flight tickets. Slowly it turned up into a few more startups in the field of website design and content.

Elevator Pitch

Elevator pitch is a slang term used to describe a brief speech that outlines an idea for a product, personality, artistic characteristic and glorifying the organization entities. Your pitch tells your audience about what your business does, who your customers are, and summarizes your key accomplishments. Elevator pitch can also be delivered as a presentation or "pitch deck." The name comes from the notion that the speech should be delivered in the short time period of an elevator ride. Pitching in business refers to presenting business ideas to the potential customers or potential investors within your business domain. A good elevator pitch is essential for an effective way to demonstrate your professional aptitude, strengths, and skills. An elevator pitch is also useful in multiple situations which makes it especially valuable.

Aganpankh Foundation

I have lived my dream for almost 20 years since the establishment of this organization for society. Aganpankh foundation is truly inspired by Dr. Abdul Kalam vision – India 2020: A vision for the new millennium.

My journey begins with a lot of ups and downs from childhood. Despite of Lack of educational background and limited economic resources of my parents, they have enrolled me in a decent private primary school in Rajkot city in Gujarat, India. I returned with a doctorate degree in chemistry in 2014 and tried to fulfill my dream. There are a million parents in India right now, working extremely hard so that their children will have a nice education and life ahead. Skill and education never remained the monopoly of any rich people or will be. We have a vast number of parents in India who survive for their child and give up on halfway mark.

My aspiration to emphasize government primary school in Rajkot, consequently Aganpankh Foundation cordially welcomes you to become a stream of patriotism. There is a long way to go, I have started my journey along with my team to serve the nation to enrich our public schools with versatile skills. Utilization of skills & education for the next generation and contribute to the creation of new India.

“testimonials,”

We came to know each other from Denmark over the social event interaction. Sometimes some lovely people comes in your life accidentally and keep their never lasting impression forever. Thank you Ritesh Bhatt for being my friend.

Ritesh started his first job at EPP Composites Pvt Ltd in 2007, and I must be proud of him as he started his journey as a lab chemist with us and achieved successive accomplishments in his career in India and abroad. Employees like Ritesh are always in demand in industries who can fit into any hierarchy and play a good role for an organization. I wish you all the best for your future.

Mr. Jayraj Shah

Managing Director
EPP COMPOSITE PVT. LTD.

“testimonials,”

Ritesh joined as a Ph.D. student in 2009 while he was working in the industry as well. As far as I know and understand him, during his tenure at the department of chemistry, Saurashtra University, he was a hard-working researcher. During his research in polymer chemistry and natural fiber composites, he always shares his knowledge and field experience with his juniors and ponders his efforts in team projection during his research.

Dr. Anamik Shah

Former Vice Chancellor at Gujarat Vidyapith

I have witnessed Ritesh's life in two parts. First, I saw him when he was a pursuing graduate student in 2005, he was struggling to complete his graduation and second in 2020, when he came back from Denmark in completely distinctive character. The way he accepts the challenges in his life to complete his education and migrate overseas is remarkable.
